ARTIST TALK: 28th September 10.30am

An exhibition of recent paintings by Australian artist Catherine Cassidy working on Dja Dja Wurrung country in Castlemaine, Victoria. "As I made these works my mind drifted to one of the longest of human preoccupations, the insistent history of marks, glyphs and images....this urgent need to inscribe, record and re-invent our world, in the case of landscape artists, the natural world, as if we can hardly believe the magic of our own existence. I made these paintings partly because of those magic-makers, the artists who have come before me and I feel indebted to them all for a feeling of strength and unshakable validity in the business of image-making. There is much to beleaguer an artist, to pull them from their path and sway their original vision. So, rather than serving the content of the show, this title is intended as a reinforcement of the continuum of art and artists everywhere and to offer my contribution as part of the pod... to those shining creatures, rising, flashing and disappearing into an ocean of imagery and time.

" A big thank you to artist Judith Nangala Crispin (May 2024) on her succinct perspective on neurodiversity and the artist. Why be seen as.. 'a disabled wombat when you are actually an excellent dolphin.'. Catherine Cassidy August 2024
